

Hip arthroscopy patient testimonial:

A painful hip put Dennis Bertz's basketball playing regimen on hold, until he turned to Dr. John Rogerson. The diagnosis? Arthritis and a partially torn labrum. Dr. Rogerson opted for a less invasive arthroscopic procedure to put the joint back in order. Dennis, an insurance agency owner, is back enjoying games on the hardwood again, where you will find him two to three times a week. He wonders now why he coped with incredible pain for as long as he did. "Dr. Rogerson is such a skilled surgeon; I have great respect for him," says Dennis of surgery and his rapid recovery. "What he did was nothing short of amazing."
